The Pontifical Athenaeum Regina Apostolorum (APRA), canonically erected by the Congregation for Catholic Education (CEC) in 1993 and directed by the Congregation of the Legionaries of Christ proposes, with its three Schools and five Institutes, an education:

- systematic, interdisciplinary and integral, with individual and updated study plans;
- solid, attentive and consistent with the Magisterium of the Church;
- current and in dialogue with contemporary culture and society, rooted in the Christian identity;
- highly qualifying for the development of specific skills and Christian leadership; to better contribute to evangelization.

The Pontifical International College Maria Mater Ecclesiae (PCIMME) is a Priestly Formation Center born in 1991 as a response to the directives drawn up by Pope Giovanni Paolo II to collaborate with the bishops in the preparation of future priests. It is open to seminarians and diocesan priests who, in the opinion of their Ordinary, have the qualities necessary to dedicate a period of their formation and study to Rome.

With the contribution of our team of formators and spiritual directors he wants to promote among his guests a profound spirit of ecclesial communion that integrates the gifts coming from the various cultures and the union in Christ.
